KATE BANAZI

Kate Banazi's art-based practice stems from her work in fashion, music, illustration and advertising. Her work is experimental, intuitive and often playful, with science and colour interactions key references.

Banazi's current work celebrates the interactions of colour and form through silkscreen prints and coloured acrylic sculptures. Relationships, identity, movement, shadows, play on light and colour are mapped through interlocking shapes. Negative space and line work plot chaos, voids and beauty.

Working from her Sydney studio, Banazi's new work for Sydney Contemporary will draw from her mixed heritage. Her inspiration is grounded and comes from a distinctive place in her family's history where interactions of colour, sound, story and conversations abound. Banazi ensures her silkscreen prints converse with her table-top and wall-mounted acrylic sculptures, and vice versa. All pieces have personality and draw from individuals in Banazi's past and present, relating and interacting in the space in which they inhabit.

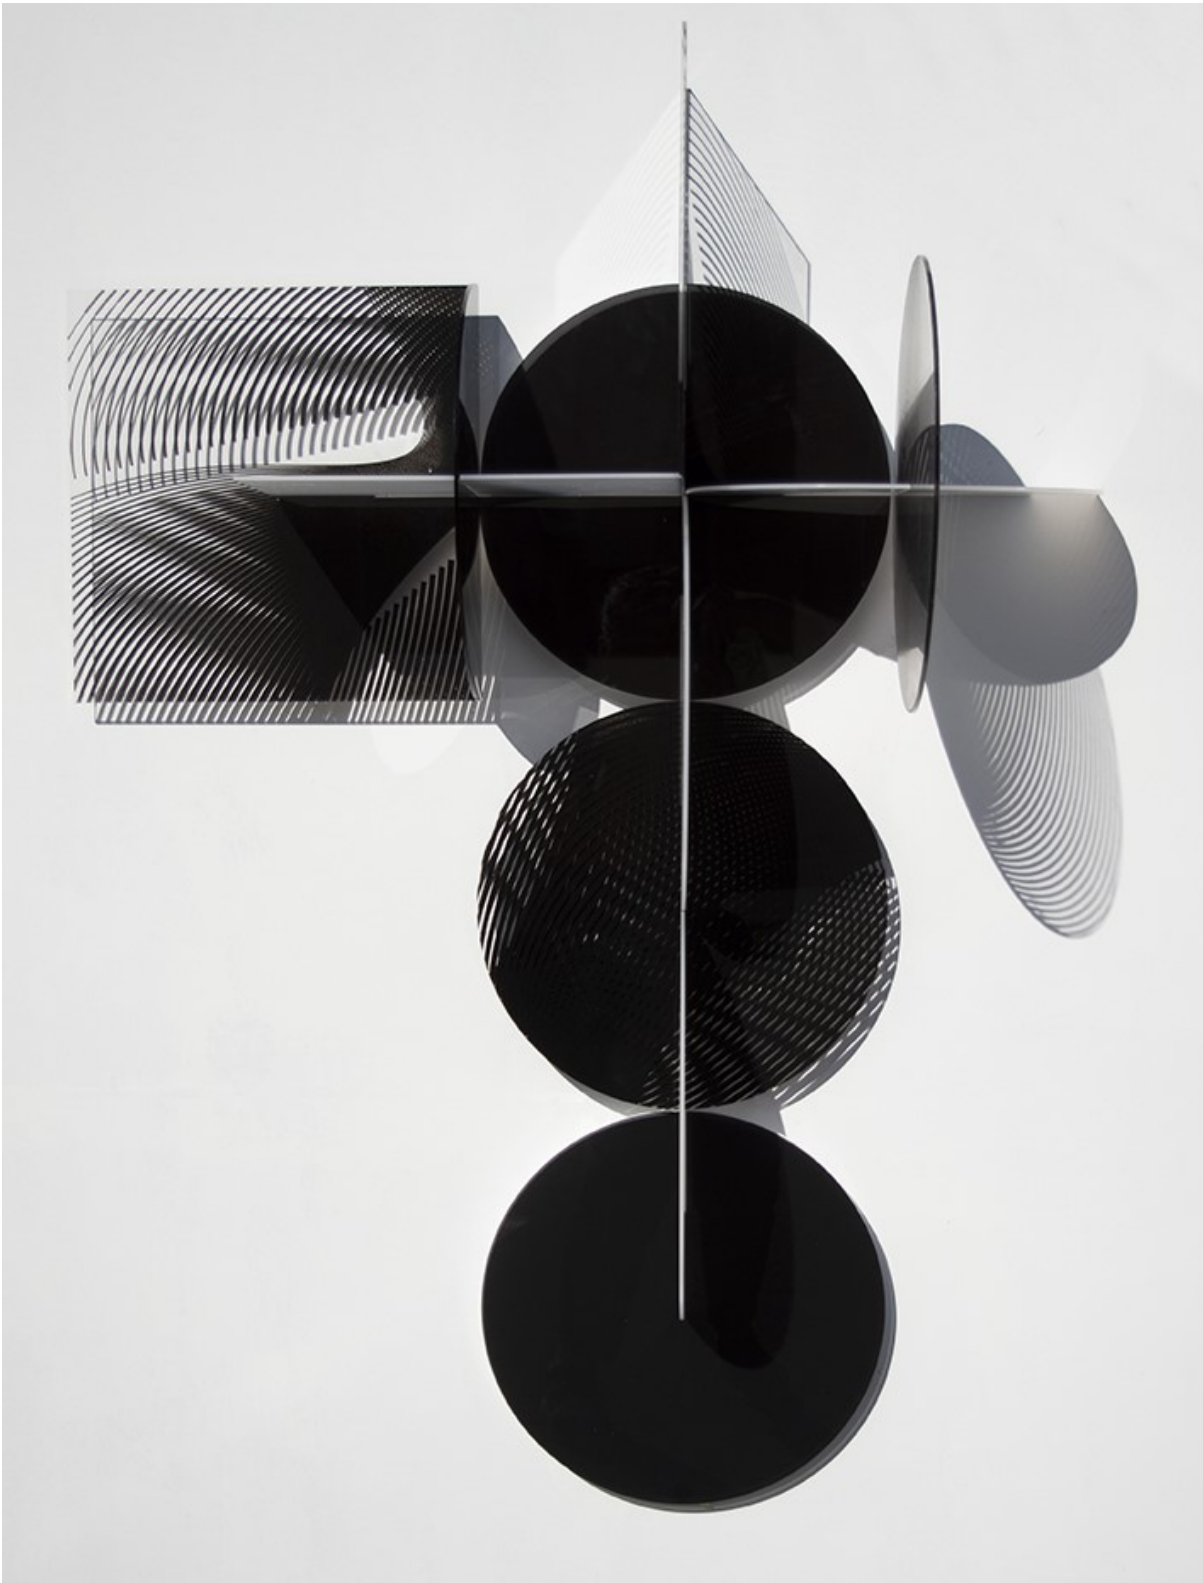

London-born Banazi holds a Bachelor of Art, Fashion Design (Hons) from Central St Martin's College, London. Her work is held in multiple public and private collections worldwide.
